

North Central Florida Cancer Control Collaborative

One Community Fighting Cancer

Who we are and what we do

The purpose of the North Central Florida Cancer Control Collaborative (NCFCCC) is to improve access to cancer care and reduce the burden of cancer on residents of North Central Florida.

The NCFCCC target area includes 11 predominantly rural counties: Alachua, Bradford, Dixie, Gilchrist, Lafayette, Levy, Union, Putnam, Columbia, Hamilton, and Suwannee. This region has the highest cancer mortality rate in the state.

NCFCCC, with support from Florida Department of Health Cancer Control Program, works to promote effective strategies for preventing and controlling cancer and providing support to cancer patients, survivors and caregivers.

North Central Florida Cancer Control Collaborative

Become a member of NCFCCC

As a collaborative, we work together to address cancer issues in our community through networking, sharing educational resources and translating cancer control research into action. By becoming a member of NCFCCC you will have the opportunity to connect with others in the cancer community and work to bring about change. Members include healthcare professionals, government agencies, community and faith-based organizations, as well as the general public. Anyone who is affected by cancer is welcome to join.
